

move forward without a team of shepherds. All of those churches have made efforts to re-establish an eldership, but to this point have been unable to do so.

As a result, we've been praying and searching the Scriptures to see how to help. When a church recognizes their shepherds and calls them forth, they are setting an important vision for the church in that area. Men who are asked to lead must be willing to lead, and they must have both the vision to see the needs of the local church, along with the ability to challenge the church for greater spiritual growth. No other entity in this world has greater impact on the future of a church than the attitudes, vision, and compassion of their elders. In keeping with God's design and supported by His Spirit, they feed, protect, and direct those whom God places in their care. The tone for the church of the future is set with the selection of those who serve.

As a result, the evangelist or minister who instructs and guides the church in this process must take great care in challenging the local church to seek those who are spiritual, compassionate, and wise. Those who are entrusted with this charge accept a grave responsibility.

Our elders and my long term ministry here, along with Pratt's knowledge that I have been focusing my studies to support church leadership in our future plans, prompted their asking me to walk with them through this process and our elders encouraged my helping them.

May God bless your efforts before Him this day.

*Grace and peace,
Carl*

St John Church of Christ

November 26, 2017

God's blessings on you this day as you read this. While I am preaching and teaching in Pratt, Tom and Terry will be covering my class and sermon today. I appreciate their skills in presenting important messages from God's word.

Some may wonder why a church would have an "outsider" come in to help them attempt to establish shepherds, and perhaps why me. Tom and I, along with Pam and Janet obviously, have had many conversations about church leadership and vision over our 30 plus years together and in particular since we formed our ministry team here in St John. We recognize that the establishment of shepherds to guide a church of God is both God ordained and necessary. We've witnessed the elderships in the four closest churches of Christ in our area all dissolve during the last 30 years and those churches
