

In Isaiah 9, Jesus is called by many names and one of those names is Prince of Peace. The name Prince of Peace is listed last in Isaiah's list, but that does not mean it is the least. It is of great significance. Without peace, the continuity of life would not be possible. That is why the Son of God has come into the world he created.

Jesus is the source of inner peace, providing peace with God, forgiveness of sins, and a sense of spiritual well-being and reconciliation. His teachings emphasize love, forgiveness, and reconciliation, promoting peace relationships with others. The Sermon on the Mount highlights the importance of peacemaking and living harmoniously. Ultimately, Jesus will bring peace to the entire world. At His Second Coming, He will establish a kingdom of peace and justice on earth. Through His death and resurrection, Jesus ended the hostility between humanity and God caused by sin. Believers are reconciled to God through Him, which is the foundation of true peace.

Jesus Christ is the ONLY reason we can truly live peacefully with God. The right relationship with God is the foundation of living in harmony with all His creation. Having peace with God vertically (in our prayer life) will allow us to have peace with other people horizontally (in our relationships) – and that peace will allow us to live in peace with all of God's creation. In Jesus, our fears in death are removed and replaced with the gift of eternal life. Moreover, the Son of God has become the Prince of Peace so that we, the children of God, may become peacemakers. With the Peace of God reigning over our lives, we will see heaven on earth as we are expectantly waiting for the second coming of the Prince of Peace.
